MAIN FCA TRANSITIONAL DIRECTIONS

1 Part 1: The main FCA transitional directions

1.1 D These directions are made by the FCA under Part 7 of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (Amendment) (EU Exit) Regulations 2019 (the 2019 Regulations), having consulted HM Treasury and other regulators as required by regulation 202 of those regulations, and being satisfied within the terms of regulation 200(3) and (4) of those regulations.

1.2 D The directions, which shall come into force on IP completion day, shall apply until 31 March 2022, unless otherwise stated in the directions (including in Annexes A and B) or unless varied or revoked beforehand (without prejudice to any continuing effect in relation to earlier times).

1.3 D The directions apply in relation to relevant obligations:

   (1) for which the FCA has responsibility for supervising or has other functions relating to a person’s compliance with the obligation; and

   (2) which arise from exit instruments in force on or before IP completion day.

2 Part 2: Interpretation

2.1 D Relevant obligation, exit instrument, excluded obligation and enactment have the meanings contained in Part 7 of the 2019 Regulations. In the directions, these terms (other than where appearing in headings and titles which are not styled in bold) are shown in bold.

2.2 D The expressions standstill direction, and TP substituted compliance direction have the meanings contained in 3.1D and 5.1D of the directions respectively. In the directions, these terms (other than where appearing in headings and titles which are not styled in bold) are shown in bold.

2.3 D Subject to 2.1D and 2.2D, italicised words and phrases have the meanings contained in the Glossary of the FCA Handbook, unless the context requires otherwise.

2.4 D References in the directions to enactments are to enactments as amended.

3 Part 3: The standstill direction

3.1 D The direction in this Part shall be referred to as the standstill direction. The standstill direction only applies in the cases and subject to the exclusions set out in the Annexes, and is subject to Part 4.

3.2 D The FCA directs that where, as a result of the operation of an exit instrument, a relevant obligation:
(1) begins to apply to a person, the relevant obligation shall not apply to that person; and

(2) applies to a person differently from how it would but for an exit instrument, the obligation is modified so that a person does not breach it if they comply with the obligation as it applied immediately before IP completion day, subject to 3.3D.

3.3 D A pre-IP completion day obligation referred to in 3.2D(2) shall be construed in such a way that compliance with it would achieve the same result as it did immediately before IP completion day but in the context that the United Kingdom is no longer a Member State, with such adaptations to EU references as may be necessary. See in addition 6.5G.

3.4 D Unless an Annex specifies otherwise, the standstill direction applies to all persons subject to a relevant obligation.

4 Part 4: Standstill direction – Exclusions and savings

Perimeter-related changes

4.1 D Subject to 4.2D, the standstill direction does not apply to the extent that a relevant obligation applies for the first time, or applies differently, as a result of amendments to:

(1) the Regulated Activities Order;

(2) the Financial Promotion Order; or

(3) the Exemption Order.

4.2 D The standstill direction applies to relevant obligations arising from:

(1) changes to the regulated activity specified in article 51ZA of the Regulated Activities Order (managing a UCITS), as set out in Annexes A and B to these directions; and

(2) the amendments made by the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (Amendment) (EU Exit) Regulations 2019 to paragraphs 2 and 3 of the Schedule to the Exemption Order (exemptions for EEA central banks and ECB) as set out in Annex A to these directions.

4.3 G The effect of 4.1D is that the standstill direction does not generally apply where the scope of a relevant obligation is affected by an amendment to the Regulated Activities Order, the Financial Promotion Order or the Exemption Order. For example, the FCA’s Conduct of Business sourcebook (COBS) generally applies to a person carrying on designated investment business in the UK. The definition of designated investment business refers to a number of regulated activities specified in the Regulated Activities Order, some of which apply differently after IP completion day. A person will not be able to rely on the standstill direction if an obligation in COBS applies to them for the first time because, for example, the definition of a regulated activity has been expanded.

EU and Member State institution functions

4.4 D The standstill direction does not apply where the pre-IP completion day obligation consists of:

1. an obligation to provide information to a body or office or institution of the EEA or a Member State;
2. an obligation to apply technical or other information published by a European Supervisory Authority; or
3. any obligation linked to a function of an institution of the EEA or a Member State, in circumstances where the function does not apply to the United Kingdom, but subject to contrary provision in the Annexes (including as set out in row 32(g) of Annex A concerning confirmation of a pre-submitted notification on or immediately before IP completion day in relation to eligibility for STS designation, in relation to the Securitisation (Amendment) (EU Exit) Regulations 2019).

Duties, powers or functions of the FCA, Bank of England, PRA, and HM Treasury

4.5 D Nothing in the standstill direction shall affect the application of a relevant obligation where a change made by an exit instrument relates to a duty, power or function of the FCA, the Bank of England, the PRA, or HM Treasury.

4.6 G Changes made by exit instruments to FCA, Bank of England, PRA or HM Treasury duties, powers or functions could result in obligations beginning to apply to a person, or applying differently. The purpose of 4.5D is to make it clear that the standstill direction does not affect the application of a relevant obligation which arises from the conferral of a duty, power or function on, or a modification of a duty, power or function of, the FCA, Bank of England, PRA or HM Treasury. For example, if FCA, the Bank of England, PRA or HM Treasury are entitled to require information from a greater class of persons post-IP completion day than pre-IP completion day, the greater class of persons must comply with any request; the obligation to comply with such a request would not be affected by the standstill direction.

Gibraltar

4.7 D The standstill direction is without prejudice to any provision made by an exit instrument relating to the application of relevant obligations in respect of Gibraltar.

Interaction with HM Treasury equivalence decisions
4.8 D The standstill direction does not apply to a relevant obligation which begins to apply in a person’s case or applies in the person’s case differently as a result of the operation of an equivalence direction or equivalence determination.

4.9 D “Equivalence direction” and “equivalence determination” have the same meanings as in the Equivalence Determinations for Financial Services and Miscellaneous Provisions (Amendment etc) (EU Exit) Regulations 2019.

4.10 G In certain areas, the use of the transitional power has the same effect as if the EU had been found equivalent by HM Treasury. The effect of 4.8D is to end the transitional relief if HM Treasury find the EU equivalent, but the requirements will remain the same for firms. See further explanation in our prudential transitional direction at paragraph 5.7G.

4.11 G The FCA is also exercising its power under Part 7 of the 2019 Regulations to make the FCA transitional direction for the Share Trading Obligation.

5 Part 5: Temporary permission firms, etc

Direction in relation to temporary permission firms etc allowing for substituted compliance for provisions other than rules etc.

5.1 D The direction in 5.3D shall be referred to as the TP substituted compliance direction.

5.2 G The TP substituted compliance direction provides for substituted compliance with the law in a TP firm’s Home State for relevant obligations in relation to TP firms, in provisions other than rules, unless the obligation is excluded from the direction.

5.3 D The FCA directs that:

1. where the operation of the EU Exit Passport Regulations leads to a relevant obligation on IP completion day for a TP firm; and

2. the obligation is one which before IP completion day was reserved to the Home State of the TP firm,

3. the obligation is modified so that the TP firm does not breach the obligation if:

   a. the TP firm (or its appointed representative) complies with, or applies (in the case where under the Home State’s law the obligation does not apply to the TP firm’s (or its appointed representative’s) activity in the United Kingdom):

   i. the same provision of the relevant directly-applicable EU measure which applies in the firm’s Home State; or
(ii) a provision of the Home State’s law which implements the same provision of the relevant directive; and

(b) the TP firm’s (or its appointed representative’s) compliance with or application of the provision covers its activities in or into the United Kingdom.

5.4 D The TP substituted compliance direction does not apply unless a TP firm can demonstrate to the FCA that, at the time in question, it complied with or applied a Home State provision referred to in the TP substituted compliance direction to the extent referred to in the direction.

5.5 D The TP substituted compliance direction does not apply:

(1) to TP firms for the purposes of the Markets in Financial Instruments (Amendment) (EU Exit) Regulations 2018 or technical standards previously deriving from MiFID or MiFIR;

(2) to obligations in relation to authorisation or registration;

(3) to obligations resulting from the deletion of section 59(8) or section 63E(7) of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000;

(4) to obligations in the SFTR;

(5) to obligations in the Securitisation Regulation;

(6) to obligations in the Market Abuse Regulation; and

(7) in relation to rules which apply to TP firms made under exit instruments.

[Note: the TP substituted compliance direction cannot apply to rules made under powers other than the power in regulation 3 of the Financial Regulators’ Powers (Technical Standards etc.) (EU Exit) Regulations 2018, as obligations under those powers do not create relevant obligations, as to which see paragraph 5.10G(3) and 6.1G below.]

5.6 D In relation to an obligation covered by the TP substituted compliance direction, where:

(1) a TP firm’s Home State has exercised a national discretion expressly permitted by:

(a) an EU directive not to apply a provision which would implement a provision of an EU directive; or

(b) an EU regulation not to apply a provision of that regulation; and

(2) the United Kingdom has chosen to apply that provision, the TP firm has no need to comply with, or apply, the obligation in question.

5.7  D A provision referred to in the TP substituted compliance direction includes a provision where an EU measure sets out a number of options, and the Home State referred to in that direction has chosen one or more such options different from those chosen by the United Kingdom to implement the same provision.

5.8  G (1) The operation of the EU Exit Passport Regulations referred to in the TP substituted compliance direction is the operation of regulation 8(3), 11(3), 28(3) or 34(3) of those regulations which provides that a TP firm is to be treated as having a Part 4A permission.

(2) A provision referred to in the TP substituted compliance direction in an enactment applies to a TP firm (unless the contrary intention appears) where the enactment refers to an authorised person or includes a reference to a person having Part 4A permission (however expressed).

5.9  G (1) It is not necessary to apply the TP substituted compliance direction to provisions of MiFIR and the MiFID Org Regulation, because the Markets in Financial Instruments (Amendment) (EU Exit) Regulations 2018 address whether provisions of those measures should be subject to substituted compliance in relation to TP firms. The standstill direction applies to TP firms in limited circumstances as described in row 24 of Annex A of that direction.

(2) It is not necessary to apply the TP substituted compliance direction to any obligation resulting from the deletion of sections of sections 59(8) or 63E(7) of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000, because the standstill direction has been applied (see row 19.4 and 19.5 of Annex A).

5.10  G (1) The TP substituted compliance direction refers to a provision which deals with a matter which immediately before IP completion day was reserved to the Home State of the TP firm. This includes provisions that under an EU directive are always the responsibility of that state, for example, concerning prudential matters. It also includes provisions the responsibility for which depends on whether the service or activity takes place at a branch in a state other than the Home State of the firm, or is provided cross-border from a branch or establishment in the Home State.

(2) The TP substituted compliance direction does not apply to rules applied to TP firms, to the limited extent such rules could result in relevant obligations (see the note below).

(3) In addition to the TP substituted compliance direction, a TP firm may, other than in respect of rules, also benefit from the standstill direction. This would arise, for example, where the standstill direction is applied in the Annexes to those directions to relevant obligations of TP firms by operation of the EU Exit Passport Regulations. In practice, this would apply mostly to relevant obligations arising from statutory instruments or instruments amending binding technical standards. As explained below, most of the rules which apply to TP firms could not result in relevant obligations.

[Note: the rules we apply to TP firms are predominantly made using powers other than powers under Part 3 of the Financial Regulators’ Powers (Technical Standards etc.) (Amendment etc.) (EU Exit) Regulations 2018, which could not result in relevant obligations in any event. Such rules cannot be subject to the standstill direction, the TP substituted compliance direction or the prudential standstill direction in respect of their application to TP firms. However, where a rule applied to a TP firm is waived or modified by the standstill direction for a firm other than a TP firm, provision to similar effect for a TP firm is included in the FCA Handbook (see GEN 2.2.27R(3) and (4) and GEN 2.2.33R(3)). GEN 2.2.33R(3) makes similar provision for TP UCITS qualifiers and TP AIFM qualifiers.]

Direction in relation to the distance marketing regulations for TP firms, payments suppliers, relevant EEA AIFMs and recognised schemes

5.11 D The FCA directs that where the operation of the EU Exit Passport Regulations on the Distance Marketing Regulations leads to a relevant obligation on IP completion day for a TP firm which, before IP completion day was reserved to the EEA State where the TP firm has an establishment from which the service is provided, the obligation is modified so that the TP firm does not breach it if it (or its appointed representative):

1. complies with, or applies (in the case where under that state’s law the provision does not apply to the firm’s (or its appointed representative’s) activity in the UK), the same provision of the EEA State’s law which implements the same provision of the Distance Marketing Directive; and

2. the TP firm’s (or its appointed representative’s) compliance with, or application of, the provision covers its activities in or into the United Kingdom.

5.12 D The FCA directs that where the operation of the Distance Marketing Regulations leads to a relevant obligation on IP completion day for a payment supplier, a relevant EEA AIFM or the operator, trustee or depositary of a relevant recognised scheme which, before IP completion day was reserved to the EEA State where the person has an establishment from which the service is provided, the obligation is modified so that the person does not breach it if it (or its appointed representative or, in the case of a payment supplier, its agent):

1. complies with, or applies (in the case where under that state’s law the provision does not apply to the person’s (or its appointed representative’s or, in the case of a payment supplier, its agent’s) activity in the United Kingdom, the same provision of the EEA State’s law which implements the same provision of the Distance Marketing Directive; and

(2) the person’s (or its appointed representative’s or, in the case of a payment supplier, its agent’s) compliance with or application of the provision covers its activities in or into the United Kingdom.

5.13 D The expressions in 5.12D of “payment supplier” and “relevant EEA AIFM” have the meanings in regulation 4(1C) of the Distance Marketing Regulations; and of “operator”, “trustee” “depositary” and “relevant recognised scheme” have the meanings in regulation 4(6) of those Regulations.

5.14 D The direction in 5.11D or 5.12D does not apply unless, as the case may be, a TP firm or a person referred to in the direction can demonstrate to the FCA that, at the time in question, it complied with or applied a provision of the law of the state referred to in 5.11D or 5.12D to the extent referred to there.

6 Part 6: General Guidance

What is a relevant obligation?

6.1 G The 2019 Regulations allow the FCA to give a transitional direction in relation to a relevant obligation. An obligation is a relevant obligation if:

(1) the obligation is imposed by or under an enactment,

(2) the obligation is not an excluded obligation,

(3) the regulator has responsibility for supervising, or has other functions relating to, the person’s compliance with the obligation, and

(4) as a result of the operation of an exit instrument, the obligation

(a) begins to apply in the person’s case, or

(b) applies in the person’s case differently from how it would, but for the exit instrument, apply in the person’s case.

6.2 G The following should not be considered relevant obligations for the purposes of the directions, and are not modified by them.

| Provisions in exit instruments which do not result in obligations applying for the first time, or applying differently | A relevant obligation is one that begins to apply, or applies differently, as a result of the operation of an exit instrument. Some amendments made by exit instruments do not result in the creation of a relevant obligation. For example, an exit instrument may amend a cross-reference so that it is to UK implementing legislation rather than an underlying EU directive. Alternatively, an exit instrument may copy into UK law a definition which previously appeared in an EU |

The purpose of the directions

6.3 G The purpose of the directions is to give regulated persons time to adapt to changes to financial services regulation caused by the United Kingdom’s withdrawal from the EU. Continuity is generally achieved by:

(1) disapplying obligations that begin to apply to a person;

(2) otherwise allowing persons to continue to comply with the pre-IP completion day version of an obligation; and

(3) in addition, for TP firms, allowing substituted compliance for Home State obligations.

6.4 G The standstill direction means that a person will not be in breach of a relevant obligation so long as it complies, as it was doing prior to IP completion day. For example, money-laundering legislation may require post-IP completion day enhanced due diligence for EEA entities in circumstances where it is not required pre-IP completion day. The standstill direction means that a person who does not carry out such enhanced due diligence will not be in breach of the legislation. But it will still need to comply with the due diligence standards which existed pre-IP completion day.

6.5 G (1) Since the United Kingdom will not be subject to EU law after IP completion day, obligations will need to be construed in a way that achieves the same result as before IP completion day. So, for example, if an obligation referred to an EEA State before IP completion day, it would need to be construed as referring to an EEA State and the United Kingdom after IP completion day. This is the effect of 3.2D and 3.3D.

(2) In construing a relevant obligation so that it achieves the same result despite the United Kingdom no longer being a Member State, adaptations may need to be made. These adaptations may be to EU references, such as to EU entities. Other references requiring adaptation may be to governments, central banks, national competent authorities, other institutions or bodies of Member States, the EU and non-EEA third countries.

Are you required to comply with the pre-IP completion day version of an obligation?

6.6 G The standstill direction does not require compliance with the pre-IP completion day version of an obligation. It is open to a person relying on these direction to choose whether to comply with a pre-IP completion day obligation or with the post-IP completion day version of an obligation. However, a person relying on these directions must do one or the other.

6.7 G For example:

1. A pre-IP completion day obligation may have applied to activities carried on from an establishment in the United Kingdom or another EEA State.

2. The post-IP completion day unmodified obligation may only apply to activities carried on from an establishment in the United Kingdom.

3. In this case, the standstill direction will not require a person to continue to comply with the obligation when carrying on activities from an establishment in an EEA State. It will be sufficient that the person complies with the obligation for activities from a UK establishment.

Effect of the standstill direction on a definition where the direction applies to a provision

6.8 G Where the standstill direction applies to a provision that contains a definition that has changed as a result of an exit instrument, the standstill direction also applies to the change to the definition in that provision, so far as relevant.

7 Part 7: Guidance on how we have applied the standstill direction in the Annexes

7.1 G We have generally applied the standstill direction in a broad way in areas where relevant obligations arise. However, there are some areas in which we have not applied the standstill direction. This Part gives general guidance on how we have identified where to apply the standstill direction. More specific guidance can be found in the Annexes.

Where a standstill would pose risks to our objectives

7.2 G We have not applied the standstill direction in areas where allowing persons to continue to comply with the pre-IP completion day versions of their regulatory obligations would pose risks to our objectives.

Interaction between the standstill direction and other transitional provisions or regimes
The standstill direction is not a substitute for transitional provisions or regimes which have been put in place by HM Treasury or the FCA. The standstill direction has therefore not generally been applied to obligations where separate transitional provisions or regimes already exist to mitigate disruption. However, please note, for example, the application of the directions in Annex A to credit rating agencies and in relation to consumer credit.

Where an area already contains a transitional provision, we have not generally applied the TTP beyond that transitional provision. For example, in relation to the transitional provision for EEA prospectuses approved before the end of the transition period, the TTP will not affect a person’s duty to comply with the new onshored requirements for EEA prospectuses which have not been approved by the end of the transition period.

A TP firm should refer to Part 5 of the directions.

The Annexes to these directions contain further information on how the standstill direction applies in areas where there are also specific transitional regimes.

The directions do not modify the FCA Handbook and non-Handbook guidance on relevant obligations. However, we expect FCA Handbook and non-Handbook guidance to be interpreted in a way that takes into account any modifications of an underlying obligation by any of these directions. Guidance should be interpreted sensibly and purposively in the light of any such modifications.

We expect the same approach to be taken to guidance on relevant obligations issued by the European Supervisory Authorities and other bodies, to the extent such guidance continues to be relevant. Our wider approach to EU non-legislative materials is set out in the FCA’s Statement on “Our approach to EU non-legislative materials”.

The standstill direction applies to obligations that will exist under UK law after IP completion day. The standstill direction cannot affect any obligations that will exist after IP completion day under foreign law, for example, EU law or the national laws of EEA States. For example, UK persons will no longer be able to passport into the EEA after IP completion day, and their activities in the EEA may be subject to authorisation or registration requirements and other provisions of EU and national law.

The interaction between the standstill direction and the FCA Handbook transitional provisions in GEN TP 5
10.1 We have made a number of transitional provisions in GEN TP 5. The purpose of the GEN TP 5 transitional provisions is to provide for continuity in actions that span IP completion day in some way. For example, if a firm is required to notify the FCA of a breach of a requirement, it will continue to be required to notify the FCA of breaches of requirements as they applied before IP completion day.

10.2 GEN TP 5 should be interpreted in a way that takes into account any modifications by a direction under Part 7 of the 2019 Regulations.
